

136 Died During May in Motor Mishaps in State

According to Statistics Prepared by Bureau of Motor Vehicles—40 Per Cent in Greater New York—High Death Rate for Children.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, July 8.—One hundred and thirty-six persons were killed in automobile accidents during May, statistics prepared by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles show. These deaths were the result of 132 accidents. In each of four accidents, two persons were killed.

Approximately 60 per cent of these accidents happened in Greater New York. Of the total number of fatal accidents 77 per cent occurred in cities and 23 per cent occurred in rural districts. Sunday was the leading day, having 43 fatal accidents. Fifteen fatal accidents happened between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

There were 93 accidents in which automobiles struck pedestrians, which resulted in 94 deaths. Seven accidents, each involving two automobiles, resulted in seven deaths; three accidents, each involving an automobile and a railroad train, resulted in three deaths; eight accidents, in each of which an automobile struck a fixed object, resulted in 10 deaths, and ten non-collision accidents resulted in 11 deaths.

A study of the cases of pedestrians killed shows that 48 were under 15 years of age. Of this number 39 were walking, running or playing in the street; 3 were hitchhiking; 1 was crossing not at an intersection; 4 were crossing at intersections, with signal, and one was not on the roadway. There were 24 persons killed, who were between the ages of 15 and 55 years, and 16 more than 55 years of age. Most of these accidents, could have been avoided.

The high mortality rate for children as shown by the accident reports indicates that children should be instructed how to cross streets properly, to avoid playing in the streets and not to hitchhike. Safety measures should be constantly taught. Crossing streets in the middle of the block and darting from behind parked cars without watching traffic are dangerous practices and should be stopped. Traffic signals must be obeyed.

Of the 94 pedestrians killed, 47 were walking, running or playing in the street. Thirty-nine of the victims were under 15 years of age. There were 17 pedestrians crossing at street intersections at the time they were knocked down. Thirteen of these were under 15 years of age. Nine were crossing streets elsewhere than at an intersection. Five were riding on the rear of or hitching on vehicles. Of this number 3 were under 15 years of age. Three were not on a roadway. Three were crossing at intersections, each person being more than 55 years old.

The following table shows what those who were killed were doing when they were struck:

Waiting for, or getting on or off street car in safety zone.....	1
Same; no safety zone.....	2
Getting on or off other vehicle.....	1
Crossing at intersection with signal.....	3
Same; against signal.....	3
Same; no signal.....	17
Crossing not at intersection.....	9
Walking, running or playing in street.....	47
At work in roadway.....	1
Riding or hitching on vehicle.....	5
Not on roadway.....	3
Was intoxicated.....	1
Was confused by traffic.....	1
Not stated.....	1

The ages of the killed were: 10 under 4 years, 38 between 5 and 14 years, 24 between 15 and 54 years, 15 were 55 and over, and in 6 cases the age was not stated.

Of the 143 drivers involved in the fatal accidents 7 were women and 136 men. An analysis of what these drivers were doing at the time of the accidents discloses that 89 were inattentive, 16 driving properly, 9 were driving cars that ran off the roadway, six drove cars that skidded, five drivers were intoxicated, four were speeding, three were backing their automobiles, one did not have the right of way, one was cutting in, one passing a standing street car, one passed through a safety zone, the car of one was parked and one driver had a physical defect. Two cars were classified as "not stated." An analysis of cars involved indicated that there were 72 passenger cars, 40 commercial cars, 15 taxis and 5 others.

The passenger car was involved in every type of accident. Forty-two struck pedestrians, 11 collided with another automobile, one with a horse-drawn vehicle, three with railroad trains, one with a street car, four with other vehicles, eight with a fixed object, and nine were involved in non-collision accidents.

The 49 commercial cars involved in fatal accidents show that 32 struck pedestrians, two collided with other automobiles, one with a horse-drawn vehicle, and two were classified as miscellaneous. The 15 taxis involved in fatal accidents struck pedestrians, except one which collided with another automobile.

In computing percentages for the type of cars involved in fatal accidents it is found that New York city motorists represent 1.5 per cent of all the cars registered, and yet they represent 11 per cent of the fatal accidents.

Public May Study Soft Drink Law

Common Council Adopts Report of Committee That 2,000 Copies of Proposed Ordinance Be Printed and Distributed—Public Hearing Before Council Action.

The proposed soft drink ordinance which has been drafted by Corporation Counsel James Jenkins will be submitted to the public before the common council takes action to adopt or reject it. That was decided Tuesday evening at the common council session when the report of the law and rules committee recommending that 2,000 copies of the ordinance be printed and distributed to the public and that thirty days later a public hearing be held was unanimously adopted.

The report of the committee in full follows:

Your committee on laws and rules held a meeting at the city hall on Wednesday evening, July 1st, 1925, and considered the matter of the "Soft Drink" ordinance which was referred to this committee by your honorable body. Several changes in the ordinance were adopted after discussion, and it was the opinion of the committee, if the common council concur, to have 2,000 copies of the ordinance printed and given to the aldermen of the wards to be distributed by the aldermen to their constituents, and also that copies be left with the city clerk to be given to any person calling for the same. And further, that after 30 days from this date has been allowed to enable citizens generally to become familiar with the scope of the ordinance, it was recommended that the mayor hold a public hearing at the city hall, in order that all persons interested may have an opportunity to be heard, after which at the next regular meeting of the common council the ordinance be taken up for discussion and voted thereon.

Respectfully submitted,
C. G. EDINGER, Chairman,
DR. H. P. VAN WAGENEN,
E. J. DEMPSEY.

BRITAIN DENIES REPORTS OF BREAK WITH RUSSIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 8.—Foreign Minister Chamberlain denied in the House of Commons tonight that severance of diplomatic relations with Russia was imminent.

"There is no proposal for the severance of relations with Russia under consideration by the government," said the foreign minister.

This laconic declaration was drawn from Chamberlain after Labor members heckled him regarding reports that he was prepared to break with Russia and demanded exact information of the status of affairs.

The foreign minister said the situation is being watched. Earlier in the week he had told the House of Commons that the situation was critical and appealed to both Laborites and Conservatives to restrain inflammatory talk. He added that the government would have to reserve to itself the right of negotiating with Russia with entire freedom of action and without advising the Commons of steps to be taken.

During the past few days sensational rumors have been afloat over Europe that severance of relations between Britain and Russia and between Russia and other powers was imminent.

The commercial cars in New York city represent six per cent of all the cars registered, and yet they represent 22 per cent of the fatal accidents. On the other hand commercial cars registered represent 11 per cent of all the cars registered and represent only six per cent of all the fatal accidents. The passenger cars of Greater New York represent 22 per cent of all the cars registered and 23 per cent of the fatal accidents. The passenger cars of state make up 55 per cent of the total registered and 32 per cent of the accidents.

Rockefeller at 86, Depends on Golf

Finds That the Game Keeps Him Young—Made Nine Holes in 48 on Monday—Thankful for Anticipated Blessings.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tarrytown, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller is finding that golf is keeping him young. He celebrated his 86th birthday quietly on his estate at Pocantico Hills today, but managed to get in his daily round of golf.

He has been playing nine holes a day for some time and his friends say his game never was better. On Monday he made nine holes in 48. His friends ask where is there a better 86 year old golfer than that?

After his golf this morning, Mr. Rockefeller planned to have dinner with his family, and in the afternoon to hear an organ recital by the Rev. John M. Furman, of the First Reformed Church of Tarrytown. The Rev. Furman has been invited to the Rockefeller home.

It was announced that Mr. Rockefeller is well and full of good cheer, and is full of gratitude for all the blessings that the coming year holds out for him.

May Confer on China Treaties

New American Minister Sounding Other Powers on Advisability of Conference—State Department to Await His Report Before Proceeding Further.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 8.—Under instructions from Secretary of State Kellogg, John V. A. MacMurray, new American minister to China, is sounding out the representatives of the powers at Peking on the advisability of holding a conference for the revision of China's treaty relations with foreign nations.

It was stated here today that upon MacMurray's report to Kellogg will depend the next step of this government in getting the conference organized. Despite the opposition of Great Britain and Japan to the American proposal, the state department has indicated no change in its original plan, but expects to take no further step until MacMurray has surveyed the situation in China and called his impressions to Washington.

Ratification of the treaties of the Washington conference relating to China by the French Chamber of Deputies was looked upon here as an endorsement of the suggestion of the United States that the powers should not delay in helping the Chinese impotence of the Peking government. Officials feel that Great Britain and Japan will eventually approve the conference suggestion and accept the invitation which China is said to be ready to tender at a propitious moment.

Spending $412,000 For Highways in Ulster County

Practically Every Town in County Getting Some Town Roads Constructed After Being Held Up a Year by State Highway Department—Where Improvements Are Being Made.

Several of the towns in the county are now undertaking the carrying out of activities incidental to the construction of county roads, provisions for which have been made by the board of supervisors. The state and county share together with the motor vehicle moneys amount to about $310,000. This amount together with the $102,000 from the towns in which the work is to be done gives a working amount of $412,000 for highway purposes in the various towns in the county. Practically every town in the county is getting some town road construction this year.

A stretch is being constructed in every town or will shortly be started except in the town of Kingston, and in order that the city of Kingston might receive direct benefits from the funds additional appropriations have been made for the Sawkill road to the town of Kingston line and work is progressing toward that point. The Sawkill road was improved for a considerable distance toward the town of Kingston line two years ago and work will be carried on to the town line.

All of the construction is of bituminous macadam along standard specifications except at Clintondale, town of Plattekill, where a reinforced concrete road is being laid on the main street.

Considerable progress has been made by the several forces but it has been found that considerable damage was done to the work which was commenced two years ago, completion of which was held up over a year by the state highway department. This has necessitated expenditures which would not have been necessary had the work been allowed to proceed during 1924.

The towns are equipped with the necessary machinery for road construction and the work is progressing in a satisfactory manner. Roads under construction are closed when absolutely necessary and detours are provided. The work is carried out under the direction of County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran and the work is carried on along the same idea as state road construction.

In the town of Saugerties the Mt. Marion-High Woods road is being built. In the town of Ulster the main street through East Kingston is being built. This work will be continued past the brick yards and on to the city of Kingston line.

In the town of Esopus the Rondout Creek Bridge-South Rondout road which was started and the grade established two years ago will be rushed to completion. The road is now ready for the bituminous pavement and when completed will be a direct benefit both to the hamlet of South Rondout and Kingston.

At New Paltz there will be a continuation of construction past the Arbrooke Farm toward the County Farm.

In Hurley the work will be continued on the mountain road to Lomontville. Work will also be continued on the road leading from Stone Ridge by way of Atwood toward Olive Bridge and the Ashokan Dam.

The road from the hotel at Woodstock to Rock City and Byrdcliffe as well as the Bearsville-Wittenberg road will be improved. Work was started on the Bearsville-Wittenberg road two years ago and a considerable stretch was built. This will be continued.

In the town of Shandaken the Big Indian-Olivera road will be built. In Wawarsing the Greenfield-Sullivan county road will be taken up. On account of the tremendous traffic over this road during July and August, work will have to be done after the summer rush is over on Labor Day.

The road to the west of the New York-Kingston highway between Highland and Milton will be continued. In the towns of Marlborough and Shawangunk work started two years ago will be continued.

A road which will parallel the Walkkill Valley railroad from Gardiner toward Walkkill will be built in the town of Gardiner.

In both Hardenburgh and Denning work already taken up will be continued. This is also true of the town of Olive.

Work will be continued in the town of Rosendale on the Tilton-Springtown road. A considerable stretch of the sub-base was put in two years ago and the top will now be placed.

Following the completion of the Rondout Creek Bridge-South Rondout road in the town of Esopus, work will be taken up on the Ulster-Park-Union Center road. Work will progress from the state highway at Ulster Park toward Union Center. Eventually this road will be completed through to the state highway at St. Remys.

The various town roads in the county will gradually be built as funds are provided. Each season it is planned to take a stretch of road and improve it, gradually linking up the main highways by means of good macadam town roads.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks appeared Tuesday afternoon before the board of appeals, created under the city zoning ordinance, and asked for a rehearing on the application of John Duffner to erect a gas station at the corner of Wall and Fair streets. Scopes Predicts Fanatics' Drive

Tennessee School Teacher Foresees Them Trying to Force Their Theories on Public Through the Schools If Evolutionists Lose Present Fight.

Copyright, 1925, by International News Service.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., July 8.—The Tennessee anti-evolution case, testing the right of any state to dictate the limits of public education should be fought out on Constitutional grounds, John Thomas Scopes, youthful defendant in the "legal battle of the century," declared today in an interview with the International News Service.

This was the issue drawn by the 24 year old school teacher after William Jennings Bryan, his leading prosecutor, had electrified this little mountain community by predicting a "duel to the death" between evolution and Christianity.

The boy defendant from the hills and his world famed grayed nemesis faced each other across the banquet table, but Scopes ignored the challenge. He declared today it was his wish that the modernist-fundamentalist row be kept out of his trial.

The issue is serious enough, he said. If the fight is lost to the evolutionists, Scopes predicted a wholesale drive by "religious, political and economic fanatics" to force their theories upon the general public by placing limitations on public school curricula. In the end, he warned, there would result a blighted national education.

"The real issue here," said Scopes, "is whether the anti-evolution law is Constitutional. I believe it is not because it violates the religious freedom guarantee and the property rights clause of the Constitution."

Scopes pointed out that both the Tennessee state Constitution and the American Declaration of Independence guarantee to each citizen the right to "worship God" according to the dictates of his own conscience.

"I hope the fight is made on Constitutional grounds and that my trial will not develop into a battle between evolutionists and fundamentalists. At least, it seems to me, to be unnecessary to drag in the fundamentalist-modernist row."

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buffalo, N. Y., July 8.—Tales of a huge rum armada ready to dash from Port Colborne to the United States are a bugaboo. That dispelled the myth.

"Vanities" Beauty Shoots Husband, A Leading Actor

Allen Davis, Leading Broadway Actor, Victim of Wife's Rage Following Brief Quarrel—Who Becomes Repentant in Cell.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 8.—"Oh, why did I do it? Why did I do it?" Over and over, pretty Mrs. Edith Davis, known on the stage as "Edith Parker," who shot and seriously wounded her husband, Allen Davis, 25, a leading Broadway actor, moaned these words in her cell at a police station today.

"God, don't let him die," she cried. "I love him so."

She sat in her cell with her head in her hands.

The shooting occurred last night in a bedroom of the apartment of Henry Gribble, an actor, in the heart of the bright light district. Gribble, another actor and Davis were about to have dinner together. Mrs. Davis suddenly appeared and said quietly:

"I want to see my husband alone."

There was an exchange of sharp words—the firing of two revolver shots. The promising young Broadway actor was shot twice.

She fled and was caught by two policemen.

At the hospital, where he was taken, Davis told detectives not to allow his wife to see him if she is released after arraignment today.

Special Franchise Reduced $219,006

The state tax commission this year has made a considerable slash in the special franchise valuations on the city tax roll, and Mayor Morris Block in a communication to the common council called attention to the fact that $219,006 had been lopped off the valuations by the state board.

Mayor Block in his communication said that last year the corporations paid a tax upon a valuation of $984,906, while this year the total valuation was but $765,900. He suggested that the council refer the entire matter to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins for such action as he may deem best to take in the matter.

The council unanimously approved the mayor's recommendation. The special franchise valuations last year and this year are as follows:

ORNAMENTAL SPRUCE TREES DISFIGURED.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., July 8.—There has been most unusual injury to ornamental spruce in widely separated parts of the state. It is reported by Dr. E. P. Felt, state entomologist. Certain small leaf miners have been extremely numerous, particularly on the Colorado blue spruce, and have seriously disfigured beautiful trees. Investigations show three closely related species cause very similar injury.

Infestation is indicated by groups of discolored needles held together by a light webbing containing numerous brownish castings. The small greenish caterpillars mine or eat out the contents of individual needles, entering through a circular hole near the base of the leaf. Feeding is practically completed at present. Many of the moths are on the wing, eggs are being deposited shortly and the young caterpillars will soon be making tiny mines in the leaves. Development is slow during the remainder of the season, most of the feeding occurring in early spring.

Spraying with a tobacco soap preparation of standard strength, applied about the middle or the latter part of July, would very probably destroy many of the young miners, according to Doctor Felt. Since most of the feeding occurs in early spring and the caterpillars enter a number of needles, spraying from the first to the middle of May with arsenate of lead, used at the rate of at least 4 pounds of powder to 100 gallons of water, is another most promising check upon these annoying and nearly unknown pests.

Halted Guns to Save Heroic Mother Bird

One day during the World war I was taking a battery of artillery along a grassy road, a writer in London Tit-Bits relates. The horses were trotting, and behind them the guns rumbled and swayed over ruts and stones. Suddenly there appeared not fifty yards in front of the leading horses a dozen fluffy brown partridge "cheepers," tiny mites no bigger than sparrows, running hither and thither in the wildest panic before the approaching danger. With them was the mother bird. She chirped them off into the grass on either side of the road, and then, when the last one had made its escape, turned and with open beak and half-spread wings faced the battery, daring them to come on.

Had the battery not been halted the bird would have given her life in an endeavor to ensure the safety of her chicks. As it was, she achieved her object by a display of real heroism in the face of hopeless odds.

This is a typical example of the way nature makes heroes of animal mothers, no matter how timid they may be when they have no family to care for. In defence of their helpless young, nature's heroines will face any creature that threatens their safety.

Species Unchanged for Eight Million Years

The longest pedigree in the world so far as science can discover belongs to the "sphenodon," which can boast an ancestry of eight million years duration. The sphenodon is found on a tiny island off the coast of New Zealand. There is nothing quite like it anywhere else. The sphenodon is a reptile and is a mixture of crocodile, snake, turtle, and lizard. As a matter of fact, it is probably the ancestor of all these creatures, but in the process of evolution through countless ages, the "children" have altered and split up into a hundred and one different "families." The sphenodon, however, has gone on its way unchanged and is exactly as it was eight million years ago. This prehistoric creature shows greatest similarity to the lizard. It has four short legs and a long tail. Its face is rather like that of a fish and there is a hard ridge on the top of its head and down its back. The dinosaur and other prehistoric animals are of quite recent date compared with the sphenodon. It is generally supposed that the dinosaur disappeared off the earth a mere three million years ago!

Wyre Drawing Ancient Art

The Gold and Silver Wyre Drawers company recently gave a banquet in London, England. It is of interest to note that the craft had its origin in India, and the first mention of it is made so long since as B. C. 1201. Holy Writ runs: "And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen with cunning work." Homer and Herodotus also make mention of the art. Specimens of gold and silver wire drawing dating back to the Scandinavian period were found some years ago at Wareham; and the body of William Butler who died in the days of Charles I was found to be wrapped in cloth of gold.

"Mad as a Hatter"

Originally this expression meant very angry or furious. Now it is more often used in the sense of violently insane. Lexicographers have been unable to trace its origin. Some think "hatter" in this phrase is a corruption of "latter," which is the German way of writing solder. Is German it is "latter." Since this is an old English phrase, and since many people in England have a trick of putting "it" where they are needed and supplying them where they are unnecessary, this seems to be a plausible theory. It would be very easy for "latter" to become corrupted into "mad as a latter." However, this is only a theory without any concrete evidence to support it.—Pittsburgh Magazine.

Advocates More Divorce Courts

Episcopal Dean Says There Should Be One in Every County—Can't Legislate on Subjects We Know Nothing About.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York July 8.—A "divorce laboratory" was advocated today as a more vital national need than divorce legislation by Dean Charles N. Lathrop, head of the Social Service Department of the National Council, Episcopal Church.

"The divorce question is smashing American homes and filling orphan asylums with the children of divorced parents," said the Rev. Dr. Lathrop, commenting on the move to bar the marriage of divorced persons in the Episcopal Church, launched by the Sanctity of Marriage Association.

"Divorce laws are foolish," declared Dr. Lathrop. "All laws on the subject are useless. You can't legislate on a subject we know nothing about. There should be a divorce court in each county to handle nothing but divorce cases. In connection with such a court research work should be undertaken to determine the causes of this social evil."

"We need to study 1,000 typical cases of divorce and analyze what is behind them. I would like to see some scientific foundation under take such a survey, or have Congress appropriate funds for a research department on the divorce question."

Dean Lathrop said that Judge Charles W. Hoffman's "divorce court" in Cincinnati was a pioneer in the "divorce laboratory" field.

The dean declared he did not believe a canonical law prohibiting divorces from remarriage would affect the situation one way or another, "but it would put the church right."

"I don't believe any Christians get divorces. The law cannot dissolve a marriage and you can't believe in the New Testament and divorces, too."

The Sanctity of Marriage Association intends to present a petition to the General Episcopal Convention in New Orleans next October, calling for a law prohibiting remarriage of divorced persons.

Among those prominent in the association are: The Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, president; Bishop William T. Manning, New York; and Bishop A. C. A. Hall, Burlington, Vermont.

Lightning Bolt Struck Bogart

Roy Bogart of Lake Katrine is confined to his bed from injuries received when struck by a bolt of lightning during the heavy electrical storm that broke over Kingston and vicinity late Tuesday afternoon. When the storm broke Bogart and his father, Abram Bogart, retired to the barn on their farm at Katrine. The barn is equipped with old fashioned upper and lower doors. The lower door was closed and both men were leaning on it watching the storm.

Suddenly there was a sharp flash of lightning accompanied by a terrific clap of thunder. The son was hurled over backward unconscious, but the father, who stood alongside him, did not even feel a shock from the effect of the bolt.

The younger man was removed to the farm house and placed in his bed, still unconscious, and Dr. Emerick of Saugerties was called to attend him. He remained unconscious for several hours. Today it was said that he was a trifle improved.

The bolt that struck young Bogart did not do any further damage.

MATHEWSON CRITICALLY ILL AT SARANAC LAKE.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Y., July 8.—Christy "Big Six" Mathewson, president of the Boston Braves and beloved idol of baseball fans the country over, is critically ill at his Trudeau home at Saranac Lake, according to a copy-right story by Birney P. Lynch, sports editor, published in the Syracuse Telegram today.

$5,000,000 Fire Visits Glasgow

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Glasgow, July 8.—A relief fund for the homeless of 100 tenements destroyed in Glasgow's $5,000,000 fire was started today, while firemen still were combating the flames.

The fire was under control today after destroying Kelvin Hall, the exhibition buildings, the Free Presbyterian College and Church. The latter edifice was a copy of the famous Rheims Cathedral and damage to it alone was $1,000,000.

Six fires which broke out simultaneously started the conflagration last night.

Three Accidents At Clintondale

Clintondale was the center of three accidents Saturday morning. Nicholas Tolla, of 283 Mott street, New York, received a fractured skull and his companion, Anthony Marino, of 281 March street, New York, sustained a fractured collar bone when their car turned over near the village.

James Vitalerno, 16 years of age, a schoolboy, of 229 West 9th street, New York, sustained a fractured pelvis shortly after this first accident when his car overturned, pinning him beneath the wreck, on the road to the north of Clintondale.

Mrs. Edith Imperato, suffered lacerations about the head and arms when the car in which she was riding near New Paltz, hit a telephone pole as she pulled out of the road to give way to a party of speeders.

Busses Replace Paltz Trolley

Passenger traffic between New Paltz and Highland is now being handled by three separate motor bus lines which stepped in Tuesday morning to fill the place of the trolley service which was discontinued Monday night.

The busses are operated by Elliott Brothers of Highland and New Paltz; George H. Cahill, former general manager of the New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie Traction Company, and Von Gonsic Brothers, who operate the New Paltz-Kingston bus line.

Thus far no regular schedule of trips has been established by the three competing bus lines. Passengers, however, are being transferred between New Paltz and Highland with little or no delay.

It is said that no one has any information as to what will be done with the equipment of the trolley company. Between fifteen and twenty employees of the trolley road lost their jobs when the road ceased operating Monday night.

SEVERAL CASES BEFORE JUDGE COUGHLIN IN POLICE COURT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, July 8.—Jack Dempsey, who sails for home today aboard the Homerick, found on his last day in Paris a way to beat the avarice of the French porter.

Instead of tipping the porters, the heavyweight champion autographed their note books in payment for their services.

This was agreeable to the porters, who explained they could sell these autographs for more than the usual amount of the tips.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 8, 1925.

Possibly Poland Spring was chosen as the meeting place of the "House of Governors" in order to awaken pleasant recollections in the Governors of North Carolina and South Carolina and thus encourage their attendance.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce, July interest and dividend payments will run about $38,000,000 ahead of last year—which is rather convincing evidence that the concerns making the payments are doing improved business.

THE "HOUSE OF GOVERNORS"

Though the attendance of nearly half the Governors at this year's annual conference shows that the plan put in operation in 1908 still has vitality behind it, the high hopes originally entertained have not been fulfilled. Not a little has been and will be accomplished, but one difficulty is that sustained individual interest is prevented by the Governors' short terms. Another is that to find ground common to all the States and of real importance to all is not always possible. The interests of 48 widely separated commonwealths are so diverse that the "House of Governors" is apt to be forced to discuss minor and general rather than immediate and major matters.

More practical results in connection with pressing and important matters have come from conference and cooperation on the part of groups of States having lively interests in common, as in the case of the agreement of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania in regard to water power from the inter-flowing Delaware River. Among other examples was the water-power agreement of the Governors of Far Western States in 1915. In the same year Southern Governors conferred usefully on commercial questions. In 1917 the Governors of five Middle Atlantic States together drafted plans for putting a great industrial region on a war footing. Later the New England Governors came together to consider the fuel difficulties of the Northeast. The Colorado River Valley States, after conference, have united in a compact for the apportionment of that river's waters. New York and New Jersey have entered into a port compact, and there has been proposed a general compact of Eastern States upon hydroelectric development.

The meeting of all the Governors is no mistake, however, having already resulted in useful promotion of uniform legislation in such fields as corporation control and divorce and marriage.

WHERE LEGISLATION FAILED.

How fortunate the masses of Americans are in comparison with the masses in Great Britain will appear from the mere mention of the latter country's unemployment figures. Ramsay MacDonald's plans for immediate relief when he came into office in January, 1924, must have resulted in some temporary benefit for in May of the same year the number of idle workers was little more than a million, a decline of more than a quarter of a million from the preceding December, but during the summer the figures mounted and by the end of last year had reached 1,151,000, and now they are given as 1,250,000. A continuing proportionate rise will produce conditions next winter even worse than those of two years ago.

Before he left office Ramsay MacDonald had to offer defense for his failure to succeed in his measures of relief and Stanley Baldwin will have to make similar apology. The problem of British industrial depression has been too much for every government. All parties agree that it is part of the world situation and that general relief must await the return of trade to the pre-war level. Only a few extreme radicals contend that the solution is to be found in the overthrow of the capitalist system. There is said to be little difference of opinion among Conservatives, Liberals and Laborites as to methods of immediate relief, and all parties have kept up the unemployment drive. The present Labor drive against the Conservative government in this connection is generally understood to be mere opportunistic "politics," which of course was inevitable.

The continuing condition, after effort by the various governments, furnishes an interesting reminder that there are things which legislation can not reach or alter—a fact of which there is much need of reminder in the United States also.

That Body of Yours

THE OTHER FELLOW.

A New York taxi driver carried me between stations at a rapid but legal rate, and his ability in handling his car and avoiding collisions excited my admiration.

After swinging out to avoid a driver who was driving in an aimless fashion he remarked, "There isn't anything in the driving of a car. You can be as careful as you can, but just the same you are at the mercy of any and every driver on the road. Most of them are careful and are doing their best, but the careless one, the selfish one, and the thoughtless one, can all cause a lot of trouble and tie up the traffic."

And I just thought how that really typifies most people today in regard to their own and the public health.

Fortunately most people are careful about their own health, and think about the "other fellow."

However, there is the careless one who never gives it a thought. Attacked by an ailment that carries with it some coughing and sneezing, he goes blithely on his way, indifferent to the possibility of inflicting his ailment on others.

Then there is the selfish person. Perhaps a tired mother who has the care of a child who is suffering with whooping cough. In a desire to vary things for herself and the youngster, she takes him to a picture show, and despite her efforts the youngster begins to cough, and the tell-tale whoop announces itself to everybody. Sometimes this is thoughtlessness, but oftentimes it is selfishness, because youngsters do not "have" to have whooping cough, diphtheria or any of the childish ailments.

Our public health organizations have justified the value of their "rules" a thousand times over. They have still lots to learn, of course, and they will be the first to admit it, but a thoughtful person will admit that they have made this a safer place in which to live.

Think of the taxi driver, and remember that everybody has to be careful to make things safe for all.

ANNA MARIA PORTER.

Ninety-three years ago England was mourning the death of one of the foremost authoresses she had ever produced, Anna Maria Porter. Her works had become very popular throughout England, and in their production she was very ably assisted by her sister, Jane. All their previous works, however, were placed in the shade when they brought out the famous Waverley Novels, which have gained for themselves and their authors an undying name in English literature.

THE FIRST U. S. PASSPORT.

The first United States passport was issued 129 years ago today, July 8, 1796. It was a printed form about the size of a letter sheet and had no ornamentation whatever. The passport now in use is a rather elaborate affair, engraved from a steel plate on bond linen, with the seal of the department of state and a coat of arms. American passports are issued by the secretary of state or by the chief diplomatic representatives of the U. S. in a foreign land. Up to some years ago the governors of number of states, notably California, issued passports to citizens going abroad, but the practice has been stopped.

YALE UNIVERSITY.

The first benefactor of what is now Yale University was Elihu Yale, who was born in Boston in 1648, and who died in London 204 years ago today, July 8, 1752.

Yale was buried in Wrexham, a little town in North Wales, and his grave is a place of pious pilgrimage for all "sons of old Eli" who visit England. Yale made a fortune in the East Indies as a trader, and when he returned to America he gave to the Collegiate School at Saybrook, Conn., books and money valued at $4,000—for those times a large sum. The school was moved in 1716 to New Haven, and two years later the name was changed to Yale College.

This name applied at first only to the new buildings at New Haven, and was not given to the institution until the charter of 1745, and in 1857 the use of the title Yale University was authorized.

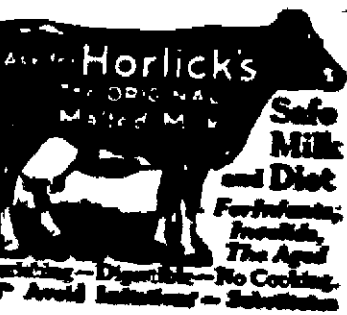

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

WHY Scientists Seek Adoption of Metric System

Soon we shall no longer compute distances in inches, feet, yards, rods and miles, and ounces and pounds will be no longer used as units of weight. This was the confident prediction made unanimously by the members of the Metric association who met in conjunction with the Association for the Advancement of Science. It is only a matter of time, declared Dr. George F. Kunz of the American museum, expert in precious stones and president of the Metric association, before this country will officially and generally adopt the simple and easily handled system of measurements now current on the continent of Europe. Centimeters and decimeters will replace our inches and feet, the yard will be supplanted by the meter, the mile by the kilometer, the ounce by the gram and the pound by the kilo. The number 10 will be the common multiple for all the tables, and school children will no longer have to remember that a mile contains exactly 1,760 yards, they will only have to learn that ten milligrams make a centigram, and that ten centimeters make a decimeter. Our money is already standardized by this metric system, making accounting far easier here than it is in England, where they still stick to their antiquated farthings, pence, shillings, crowns, sovereigns and guineas.

Why Gypsies Claim the Right to Steal

Gypsies have always, whether justly or unjustly, been labeled as chronic thieves. The Romans have ever felt that the world is against him and collects toll. Gypsies were severely prosecuted in days gone by and, until less than 100 years ago, there was a law in England making it a crime, punishable by hanging, simply to belong to the race or to speak their language, the Family Herald says.

There is a legend among the Alsatian gypsies that when Christ was to be crucified the Roman soldiers came to a gypsy smith and asked him to forge the four nails for the cross, one for each limb. The gypsy refused in spite of every threat and when the nails were finally made by a Jewish smith the gypsy tried to steal them. He succeeded in stealing only one and that is why on the crucifix one sees both feet held by a single nail. To reward the gypsy for his most laudable efforts the Lord has granted permission to every member of the race to steal once in seven years. A gypsy does not steal because he is too weak to resist the temptation, but from topsy-turvy principles.

Why He Stood Waiting

The story is told of two devout deacons of a church in a Maine city who for many years had been deep students of the Bible, so much so that ordinary conversations were enriched by illustrations from Scriptural lore. Considerable interest had been occasioned in the city by the installation of the first carrier system for making change in a department store.

Deacon S. stood by the counter one afternoon when Deacon W. approached. Deacon S.: "Why standest thou here idle all the day long, brother?" Deacon W., entirely untroubled and over his shoulder replied: "Brother, I stand here before the Lord waiting for my change to come."—Brockton Enterprise.

Why Own One's Home

It is in the home, whether rented or owned, where we enjoy the other primary needs and most of the comforts of life, entertain our friends, enjoy domestic comforts, and spend the greatest amount of our time, from the cradle to the grave. Be it ever so humble, the place par excellence for the average normal human being is the home, and it is a laudable ambition to have as an object—perhaps not always attainable—the owning of one's own home.—Exchange.

Why Horses Eat Bark

The bureau of animal industry says that the habit that horses have of eating the bark from trees is probably due to the fact that the diet of the horse does not contain enough mineral matter such as salt. If this is the cause, the animals should be given this substance frequently. This habit may also be due to the condition of the teeth.

Why He Missed Rabbit

"There, you've missed him! I certify an surprise. How come you didn't hit that rabbit, Uncle Bill?" "It was this way, boy. You see, dat rabbit he was runnin' zigzag. I aimed at him when he was in zig, and 'fore I could shoot my shootin' eye dat rabbit had shifted into zag! Dem critters is gittin' more educated every day."—London Tit-Bits.

Why He Was Annoyed

"I am never going to Smith's house again," declared Jones. "Why not?" asked his wife. "Last night they demonstrated a machine for telling how much people are lying." "Well—"

"And just before they tried it on me they poured a quart of oil on the wheels."

Why She Gave Him Up

Re—Why did you give up Reuel? She—He wouldn't believe me when I said that he was my first sweetheart. Neither Alfonso, Paul nor Raphael asked me such a question!

Care of Gums

As people contain carbonate of lime, vinegar and other acids will eat away the polished surface in a short time. Hot water is fatal to an oral, destroying its fire and sometimes causing it to crack. Soap is a deadly enemy of the turquoise.

Phoenix Players Present Play

"The Importance of Being Earnest" Pleases Large Audience—Personnel of Ulster County Committee of One Hundred and Patronesses.

A considerable number of Kingston people as well as others throughout Ulster county have interested themselves in the Phoenix Players, now giving regular dramatic performances at Byrdcliff, Woodstock. This group of dramatic artists—for they are showing themselves to be decidedly artistic—is particularly interested in putting on the stage wholesome, clever plays that have real artistic merit and that call for an all-round star cast rather than some single star of high magnitude. During the summer they will give several plays, each running two weeks excepting Wednesday and Sunday nights, beginning at 8:45 o'clock. Saturday, July 4th, was the premiere performance when the Phoenix Players presented "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The production was designed and staged under the direction of Ben Webster and Ethel Griffies, with William Miles as stage manager, Edward Everett Hale, 3rd, as assistant stage manager, Stanley H. Howe as business manager and Katherine Rosen as executive secretary.

While the little theater at Byrdcliff is not large it is attractive and forms an excellent setting for any type of play. The lighting arrangements are particularly clever and effective.

The play by Oscar Wilde is entertaining and full of witty quips and turns and humorous situations, calling for real dramatic skill on the part of the performers. The acts are set as follows:

Act I—In the morning room in Algernon Moncrieff's flat in Half Moon street, London.

Act II—Veranda of the Manor House, Woolton, Hert.

Act III—Morning room of the Manor House, Time, early summer, 1900.

Careful attention was paid to all details of costuming of the period in which the play is staged and the women's gowns were handsome.

Of course the play is decidedly an English play and just at the first the Anglican accent was a bit overdone, making it impossible for the audience to catch all of the high spots in the conversation, but as the actors warmed up to their subject and their audience, their enunciation was better without losing the desired English effect.

While the acting of Rose Hobart as "Cecily Cardew, the ward of John Worthing J. P." was especially good, it had in addition to the traditional technical qualities a freshness and individuality that was particularly pleasing.

"Lady Bracknell" (Ethel Griffies) mother of the Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax and aunt of Algernon Moncrieff, a difficult role, was admirably portrayed.

Another decidedly difficult role was that of "Algernon Moncrieff" (Hunter Williams), the ever hungry and quite philosophical youth, cousin of Gwendolen and later son of Cecily Cardew and it was finely presented, especially in the last two acts.

"John Worthing, J. P." (Edward Cooper), the "Earliest" of the situation, lover of Gwendolen, chum of Algernon and later proved to be his brother, did some excellent acting, too.

In fact all of the characters, Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax (Haroldine Humphreys), very frank and up-to-date for 1900, Miss Prism (Anne Walter), governess to Cecily and responsible for the hand-bag tragedy, the Rev. Canon Chasuble (Eustace Wyatt), prepared to do his double duty in christening, and "Lane" (Robert Donaldson) and "Merriman" (William Miles), butlers at the two different houses, were all well acted.

"The Importance of Being Earnest" will be given the remainder of this week and next week (except Wednesday and Sunday) with both an afternoon and evening performance on Saturdays.

Fourth a Great Day at Stamford

Stamford-in-the-Catskills, N. Y., July 8.—Summer showers failed in any way to dim the brilliant program that Stamford-in-the-Catskills had arranged for July Fourth. Preceded by one of the summer's most beautiful days found the roads leading into the "Queen of the Catskills" practically a solid line of automobiles, and over night the population was more than trebled.

Early Saturday morning the continual line of autos again started to pour into Stamford and to this crowd those that came by train gradually increased the number until the largest population in the history of Stamford so early in July was gathered together.

The Chamber of Commerce chairman of different committees who had planned the Fourth of July program met on Friday, July 3rd, and reported that every event was in order for a perfect day's enjoyment.

At 9.30 a. m. on the Fourth the Oneonta band arrived and reported to Mrs. Smith, who was chairman of the parade, and to George D. Taylor, who was grand marshal of the parade. Immediately after that the large number of floats formed in line from Cold Spring Farm Inn and at 11 o'clock started on their march past the reviewing stand of judges who had gathered in front of the post office, and on through to the Remmere Club Hotel and back to the reviewing stand. The parade, fully a mile and a quarter long, displayed a most marvelous and unique conception of decoration. Practically every business interest in Stamford-in-the-Catskills was represented. The judges announced the following prize winners:

Most Original Entry—Churchill Hall. A float that represented a dining room and orchestra, contained a table at which four guests were served with the Midnight Sons Orchestra playing for the guests entertainment and at the same time broadcasting their program.

Best Decorated Auto—First prize went to Grand View, second prize to Young American Float, third prize to Judy Friendly Coffee Shoppe.

Most Grotesque—First prize was awarded to Gene Dooley in his auto 1636, entitled "Wife Hunting." Second prize went to the boarding house dining room conception that was presented by the Ivanhurst. Third prize went to the "Multiplication Table Float."

Prize for Vehicles—First prize went to "Our Golden Wedding Day." Ladd Tooley easily walked away with the first prize offered for the home-est man.

Prizes for handsomest girl—first prize to Merrand Chegan, second prize to Elmita Amador.

Prize for best decorated float—first prize went to Remmere-Churchill Hall bathing casino. Second prize to MacDonald & Conklin.

Pedestrian prize—was awarded to Cold Spring Farm Inn with the title "Complexion Gained at Cold Spring Farm Inn."

Prizes to horse back riders—first, Col. L. E. Robbe; second, Miss Gertrude Decker; third, Miss Margaret Pierce.

Consolation prizes were awarded to the Square Deal Garage, Miss Mt. Ut-say-an-tha, Cozena Bros., and Sanford's Hardware Store.

The afternoon program consisted of South Kortright baseball team showing under the Stamford team to the tune of 8 to 1. Alexander Ott and Jackie Ott featured in a most entertaining water sports program.

Johnny Stout, Pro at the country club, started flight after flight on the afternoon golf tournament. At 4 p. m. the Midnight Sons orchestra rendered a beautiful patriotic dance program for a most enjoyable tea dancant at the country club.

Promptly at 8 o'clock decidedly the most elaborate program of fire works ever shown in the Catskills was got under way with a flash. Eighty-five distinctive and very novel pyrotechnical displays made up this program which lasted until 9:30. Every available auto parking space around the country club was used and immense crowds thronged the grounds to watch this display. At 10 p. m. Al Mueller and his Churchill Hall-Remmere Midnight Sons orchestra played the grand march that ushered in the most elaborate Fourth of July ball that has ever been held in Stamford. The big ball room was taxed to capacity and dancing was indulged in until a late hour.

The reports of all committee chairmen proclaimed that the 1925 Fourth of July celebration was the most successful one ever held here.

Many a boy who was the apple of his mother's eye turned out to be a winesap.

As a rule the trouble with men who speak several different languages is that they don't say anything of interest in any of them.

"A lady brought suit for ten thousand dollars against a party because her thumb had been injured. The attorney, on cross-examination, asked her if ten thousand dollars was not rather an exorbitant price for a thumb. She quickly remarked: "Oh, no, because it was the thumb under which I kept my husband."

The Straw Hat Has Recognition in Paris—Usually Not Partial to Straw.

Hair braid and felt, not together but separately, continue to be the reigning millinery materials. One is accustomed to regarding hair braid as belonging to a distinctly more formal occasion, but, of late, several have been trimmed and blocked on tailored lines. Felt has been long admitted into formal circles and are as frequently flower-trimmed.

Hair Braid and Veil Are Still Millinery Favorites.

Paris is not usually receptive to straw, which is regarded as unsatisfactory, unless combined in some way, but recent reports indicate a preference for straw just now, which is glad news to those who find felts uncomfortable—although smart—in hot weather.

Red hats, it may be remembered, were a success during the southern season, and are duplicating this success now that summer is here. Paris likes bold reds and blonds and softer tones, countenancing purple, however, since there is no denying the success of puffy coloring here or abroad.

Baby's DIAPERS

Won't irritate his tender skin washed this way

It isn't safe to wash baby's diapers in harsh soap—his skin is so tender, so easily irritated. Wash them in pure Lux—there's nothing in it to irritate. So easy on your hands, too!

THE DEERING MOWER

A strong, light-running machine. Deering Mowers have a world-wide reputation for light draft. This is because of the fact that ball and roller bearings are used where there is any great amount of friction. This means an easier day's work on the horses.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

IN A NEW DOMAIN

WHEN you are dejected and shadows darken your spirit; when the sun has lost its cheer, and the beauty and the fragrance of the flowers are gone, it is time to look about for a new domain.

It is not so much a new physical domain that you need as a new mental domain, where thoughts are changed and joyous visions troop gaily by against unfamiliar background.

The old notion that when one is tired out in body and brain, one needs to recuperate in strange lands, is taboo.

To dismiss customary routine, venturing thoughts, is really the principal thing to do. When you can do this you will discover to your delight that your former energy responds to your call with an alacrity that is astonishing.

Rest does not consist of indolence. Idleness dulls the mind of customarily industrious men and women, and induces another form of dissatisfaction and weariness which is frequently more exasperating and nerve-racking than is mental or physical labor.

You may not be conscious of it, but when you realize that you are tired through and through, you are in a rut from which you must pull yourself out by your own exertion, aided by faith in your strength to do so.

Change your diet, add an extra hour to your sleep before midnight, depart from customary amusements, pursue an entirely different course in reading, seek out old friends whom you have for some cause or another long neglected, take brisk walks in the open air, bathe in the sunshine, and in a short time you will be amazed at the improvement in both your bodily and mental prowess.

You will find that the old sluggishness has been lost somewhere along the way, that your mentality is more alert, that there is a new zest in life, a stronger beat of the heart, two brighter eyes and two cheeks of a rosier hue whose reflection in the looking-glass is a delight to behold.

And the most gratifying part of all may be the thought that you wrought the wonderful change by your own will without spending anything except your energy, which needed the changes to stir it up and start it going again at its customary gait.

Mother's Cook Book

It is out of silence that all the marvelous things of human action, all the splendid things of human courage, all the sublime offerings of faith, has sprung.—S. J. Barrows.

FOOD AND FEEDING

THE children of the family being very important members, should be thoughtfully fed. The English custom of having a table of their own, where they are not permitted any compromise between what they ought to have and what they want, is ideal. The result is sturdy, healthy youngsters. This system is followed in some measure here, but the most from necessity; others from indifference allow the children to eat at the family table, often having food that is extremely bad for them, because they cry for it. For the sake of immediate peace, they are indulged with a sacrifice of manners, morals and physique. The average mother cannot serve two sets of meals, so it is necessary that for the good of the children such food as they may eat should be served. Fortunately the young child who has never been pampered will need but little variety to stimulate the appetite. Taught early to like and eat all kinds of vegetables, the battle though fierce, will be short.

Men and women are much more healthy, easy to live with and pleasanter to entertain who have been trained in youth to like all kinds of good food.

Mashed Potatoes With Peanut Butter.

Mash, season and whip boiled potatoes until light and fluffy. Heap into a hot vegetable dish and dot with spoonfuls of peanut butter which has been blended with dairy butter.

When there is a little chicken left over, not enough to serve, put a layer of cooked macaroni into a buttered dish, add a layer of the cooked chicken and a little cream or a thin white sauce; repeat, adding seasonings needed, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Rhubarb Pudding.

Cut fresh rhubarb into small pieces, mix with sugar and put into a baking dish with well-buttered bread, left in slices or cut into cubes. Set in the oven to bake until the rhubarb is soft. Serve hot or cold.

Lettuce with a plain French dressing is a salad which may be given the children. Plenty of spinach, beet greens and water cress, as well as other green leaf vegetables are invaluable to the growing child.

Set Himself Hard Job

"Oh, dear—oh, dear—oh, dear!" moaned the theatrical manager. "I do not know what I shall do with these 'stars'."

"Why, what has happened, old boy?" asked a second manager.

"Well," cried the first, "my leading lady has gone off in a huff and refused to act with the leading man, and now the leading man—"

"Yes," asked his sympathetic listener, "the leading man?"

"Wants me to put on a play he's written."

"Oh, that's pretty bad!"

"Yes, but worse follows. He featured himself as a heavyweight boxing champion in the first act and a winning jockey in the second."

"We are not what we think we are; we are what we think," philosophized an exchange. Why, if we are what we think, what we think we are we are, are we not—or are we?"—Boston Transcript.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

Making Money Fit Business

When Times Are Active the Supply Increases—Contraction Follows Seasonal and Periodic Slackening.

NEW YORK.—Demonstration that complete elasticity has been imparted to the currency in the United States by the Federal Reserve System despite assertions to the contrary is given in the American Bankers Association Journal by W. Randolph Burgess, assistant agent at the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

"Of all the money in circulation in the United States, Federal Reserve notes now make up almost one-half," he says in part. "In 1920 they were 70 per cent. The increase in currency which the war and high world prices made necessary was provided almost wholly by Federal Reserve notes. Just as the increase was wholly through Federal Reserve notes, so again the decrease was altogether in Federal Reserve notes. Reserve notes in circulation decreased from $3,300,000,000 in November, 1920, to $1,700,000,000 in March, 1925. Between the same dates other currency increased from $1,500,000,000 to $2,300,000,000, due to an increase in gold certificates.

"There are still some few who produce theoretical arguments to show that for some reason the Federal Reserve note is not elastic. These various arguments raise interesting questions, but they make little headway against the facts, for the facts show that the Federal Reserve note has been elastic.

How Currency Changes Volume
"The amount of currency the country requires reflects changing prices, wage levels, employment and volume of trade. As an example, retail trade at Christmas time is always larger than at other times. This results in a considerable increase in the need for hand to hand currency. Currency withdrawals and receipts at the Federal Reserve Banks illustrate the way this special demand was met. Prior to Christmas there was paid out about $300,000,000 of currency, all of which was returned to the bank within the two or three weeks following Christmas.

"The mechanism is that when Federal Reserve member banks need currency for their customers they draw it from the Reserve Bank. Member banks can secure additional currency by borrowing at the Reserve Bank. Conversely, whenever currency in circulation becomes larger than is required by business it begins to return to the banks and they immediately utilize it to pay off indebtedness at the Reserve Banks, on which they are paying interest.

"The Federal Reserve System has made all types of currency, except national bank notes, elastic because all except those notes can be issued in amounts required and they all tend to flow back to the Reserve Bank when they are not required. There is another phase of currency elasticity. A $100 Federal Reserve note may represent only $40 in gold, because a gold reserve of only 40 per cent is required against Federal Reserve notes. On the other hand, a $100 gold certificate must represent $100 in gold. Thus

Educate Public For Lower Taxes

Direct Effect on Wage Earner and Salaried Employee of Lower Surtaxes to Be Stressed in New Coolidge Campaign.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Swampscott, Mass., July 8.—A new administration drive to educate the general public to the need for still further reductions in the higher income tax brackets was under way today, personally directed by President Coolidge from his summer White House here.

The president and his financial aide, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, believe that larger revenues actually will be derived if the surtax burden is lessened, and although both favor a general downward revision, it is with the levies on big business they are primarily concerned.

To this end, a tremendous campaign for public enlightenment has been launched, starting here with a formal statement in behalf of the executive himself.

A new surtax rate as low as 12 per cent is in contemplation. The present rate is forty per cent, so fixed after a terrific fight in the last session of Congress when the administration sought unsuccessfully to establish a maximum of 25 per cent.

The basic point the president hopes to drive home to the voter is that reduction in the higher brackets will mean greater prosperity in industry and therefore better jobs and higher wages for the small taxpayer. The administration argument has been outlined as follows:

"A man with two children earning $5,000 a year now pays the government about $35 a year in taxes. That man is far more concerned in continuing to earn $5,000 annually than he is with the relatively insignificant amount of his personal income tax."

A bitter fight is expected. The so-called Mellon plan, predicated upon the same argument, went down to defeat last year before a coalition of Democrats and progressives in Congress.

It is for just this reason that the educational drive has been gotten under way this year so early. The president and his advisers feel they lost in 1924 because the public failed to understand the arguments in behalf of lighter taxes on capital.

They do not propose to repeat their mistakes this year.

CITIZENS' MILITARY CAMP AT PLATTSBURG BARRACKS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., July 8.—Practically the entire quota of 1,360 men for the July, Citizens' Military Training Camp have reported here and begun their month's training. To accommodate the arriving students the Delaware & Hudson Railroad ran a number of special trains, including one that brought in 230 students.

With the completion of the period of "Processing," including medical examinations, issuing of uniforms, assignment to companies (of which there are 14), necessary to convert the civilian into a C. M. T. C. student, the carefully planned program of military training and recreational and athletic activities is in progress under the direction of specialists in the various activities drawn from regular and Reserve Army officers.

It is complimentary alike to the patriotism of the young men of the country and the value of the work being done by the camps that are attracting the high caliber of young Americans now characteristic of these yearly gatherings. These same satisfactory results are further evidenced by the fact that the quotas for the camps are being filled increasingly in advance of their opening.

An important and highly interesting patriotic event was the Fourth of July Defense Day Test conducted jointly by the Citizens' Military Training Camp, The Reserve Officers' Training Camp, the 26th Infantry Band, and various civic and labor organizations in Plattsburg and vicinity. The two camps and the 26th Infantry had 3,000 men in the parade.

POULTRY

PLACING INCUBATOR EGGS ON THE MARKET

(By T. E. QUINN-BERRY)

Some farmers and poultry raisers make a practice of putting eggs on the market for a few days and found the eggs to be infertile. This is a bad practice and should never be done by any honest farmer or poultry raiser. You may make good use of such eggs by consuming them at home. They will do to fry, for baking and for certain kinds of cooking, but they are absolutely unfit for the market. Such eggs, while good for home consumption are absolutely unfit for shipping. The yolks will break, the eggs will rot before they can reach the consumer, and it is a dishonest practice to offer such eggs for sale as fresh-laid eggs, and you lower the price on all eggs by so doing. Consume such eggs at home.

We have seen severe market losses due to a habit of sending infertile incubator eggs into commerce. This has been especially noticeable in the large houses making a specialty of breaking out eggs where they found it absolutely necessary to candle even in March and early April because farmers and poultry raisers were marketing infertile incubator eggs with their fresh eggs, and the incubator eggs came in in such bad condition and were so numerous that they had to be culled out before it was safe for the breakers to handle the eggs. At that time of the year there is no other reason for candling. You can see what a loss this means to any dealer, and instead of reducing the army of candlers which are now required this practice makes a demand for even a greater number.

Another very serious evil due to the marketing of infertile eggs from an incubator or from underneath a hen is their admixture with storage stock. These incubator eggs usually go on the market at the season when eggs are being stored without being candled. We know it to be a fact that infertile incubator eggs break down during transportation and handling and easily become "white rots."

Infertile incubator eggs can be used for bakers' purposes in the home, but under no circumstances should they ever be offered for sale or for shipment.

Another important reason why such eggs should not be marketed as fresh eggs is the fact that they are liable to be seized by food inspectors as being misbranded. Such eggs play havoc with the storage stock, and we are in hopes that no farmer or poultry raiser will be guilty of such a dishonest practice.

Trap Nest Is Accurate Test of Hen's Ability

The trap nest is the most accurate test of a hen's ability to lay eggs, but it is not practicable for those who live on farms, with all the other work they must do. Therefore, poultry specialists have been studying the general characteristics of laying hens, so that we might have a set of almost exact rules for telling the layers from the loafers. It has been proven over and over that these rules work correctly and no farm woman need longer feed hens that will not pay for their feed bill and give a profit. We must also remember that these lazy hens, which have been loafing all summer, fall and winter, will be laying their few eggs next spring at hatching time, and if their eggs are set, we will have another flock of loafers.

The hens that begin to molt in July should be sent to market. There is one exception to this, the hen that has hatched and brooded a flock of chicks, for she will usually go through a partial molt before she begins laying again. August 15 and September 15 is the best time to cull, but it will pay to go over your flock from time to time through the summer and cull out. Sell those that have stopped laying. There are usually a number of hens in every flock whose general appearance indicates they have low vitality. Little vigor and will never be profitable egg producers. A great percentage of these low vitality birds are late hatched pullets of the previous season.

Poultry Hints

Carrots, cabbage and sprouted oats help make strong chicks.

Good hatches are obtained only when the laying stock has been selected for vigor and made to exercise.

Fresh eggs are the best for hatching purposes. If it is regarded necessary to keep hatchery eggs they should be stored in a temperature of 60 degrees or lower.

Cull all undeveloped pullets and old hens from the flock.

Early hatched pullets will molt early in the fall and be ready for laying next winter at a season when egg production is low and prices high.

It has been shown that young chicks are most susceptible to infestation of roundworms until about 12 weeks of age. With severe infestation death may occur in two weeks. In mild infestations chicks live, but growth is slower and resistance to disease less.

Brief Session of Common Council

After transacting some important business that could not be laid over until later, the common council Tuesday evening adopted a resolution extending sympathy to Alderman John T. Sweeney in the loss of his son by drowning, and adjourned for two weeks.

The council before adjourning approved special sewer assessments for sewers in Josephine street and Progress street which were recently built by the board of public works. The Josephine street sewer cost $769.82 to build of which 25 per cent or $192.46 is paid by the board of public works, and 75 per cent or $577.36 is to be paid by special assessment by the property owners. The Progress street sewer cost $886.95 to construct of which amount 25 per cent or $221.74 is paid by the board of public works, and 75 per cent or $665.21 is paid by special assessment by the property owners.

The council also adopted the report of the committee recommending that the salaries of the clerk to the assessor, the clerk to the city treasurer and the clerk to the city court be increased from $1,200 per year to $1,500.

Bills and claims were read and approved. Other matters disposed of will be found elsewhere.

The council then adjourned.

'Phone, Car and Train Used to Return Child

Little Tot Left at Kingston Point Restored to Its Folks at Lanesville on Tuesday Through Quick Work of Frank Klein, of U. & D. Railroad.

"It's lost," announced a little three year old girl at Kingston Point Park Tuesday afternoon after the Day Line steamer and the boat train of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad had pulled out, and she dropped into a vacant bench and contentedly began munching on "an all day sucker."

Her statement was verified when a telephone message from the conductor of the train was received from the West Hurley station at the railroad office on Ferry street announcing that two men on the train had asked him to telephone in reporting the fact and asking that the child be taken care of until arrangements could be made for restoring her to her family.

It appeared that the Gower brothers of Lanesville had come up on the Day Line boat with the little girl in the hurry of boarding the train one of the brothers entered one car and the other another. Each thought that the little tot was with the other brother.

It was not until the train was approaching the West Hurley station that the brothers met and found that neither had the little one. The conductor was informed and telephoned the message which was received by Frank Klein, assistant to the superintendent.

Mr. Klein had his auto parked in front of the building on Ferry street and jumping into it he motored to Kingston Point after the little tot while arrangements were made to hold the flyer which left shortly after the boat train for the mountains.

As Mr. Klein approached the Day Line pier he found the little girl still contentedly munching her candy. He placed her in his car and rushed her to the West Shore station where the flyer had been held for a few minutes until he arrived.

He placed the child aboard it, word was sent ahead to the Gower brothers and the child reached Lanesville just one hour later than they did.

Coal Conferees Are Stubborn

Miners Say They Will Not Compromise, but Will Walk Out September 1—Operators Deny Right of Federal Government to Interfere.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Atlantic City, N. J., July 8.—Dark clouds of uncertainty and doubt as to a favorable outcome of the anthracite coal conference, which begins tomorrow between the miners and operators, hung over both camps today.

At informal pre-conference meetings both factions admitted that chances for a compromise or a renewal of the present expiring agreement were very small.

Spokesmen for the miners were emphatic in their assertions that their part would not agree to a compromise. They also said they did not believe the operators would give in to their demands without a struggle.

Ellis Searies, editor of the United Mine Workers Journal, declared that, in his opinion, there would be a walk out of miners on September 1, when the present agreement expires.

At a meeting of the operators this morning, it was reported they would confront the miners at the conference tomorrow with a demand for a demand for a wage reduction of from 16 to 20 per cent basing their claim on heavy competition received from coke, soft coal and oil products.

The miners declared that when the conference opens they will make the following demands:

1. A ten per cent wage increase for all men who work in the mines.
2. An increase of $1 a day for all those men employed in various other capacities about the mines.
3. A complete recognition by the operators of the union.
4. Operation of the "check off" whereby the operators pay the union dues from the miners' pay envelopes.

At the premier session tomorrow, which will be an open one, spokesmen for both sides will present their demands. Speaking for the operators will be Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company of Philadelphia.

From the miners' platform will speak Searies and John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers.

After tomorrow's session the meets will be purely executive, with six men from each side present.

The conference will continue until July 19, with a temporary adjournment on Monday when the miners will attend a convention of the District Number One at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Frank E. Hemelright, president of the Temple Coal Company of Scranton, Pa., declared the operators were determining the text of their reply to the miners.

"We will make no preliminary statements at any time," he said, "but our attitude will be fully set forth in the report tomorrow."

Asked whether the miners expected government interference in the dispute, Searies was of the opinion that the Federal authorities could not enter as all the anthracite coal fields were in the state of Pennsylvania, making the dispute purely intra-state.

He said, however, that Governor Pinchot might be called to act as arbitrator again if the situation grew tense.

BRITAIN OPPOSED TO TERRITORIAL REVISION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 8.—A flat declaration that Great Britain is opposed to giving up its extra-territorial rights in China was made in the House of Commons tonight by Foreign Minister Chamberlain.

"Britain is not prepared to renounce extra-territoriality privileges in China," he said.

Although such a declaration was taken to indicate that the foreign minister does not see eye to eye with American Secretary of State Kellogg, who is pressing for a conference at which China's foreign treaties would be considered with a view to their revision, Mr. Chamberlain denied that such was the case.

The sphinxes were not the tombs of kings. Archeologists are of the opinion that they were employed to guard the approach to a temple. Canfield Will Not Remain Head

Washington Expects Big Shake-up in Reorganization of Prohibition Forces Including Transfer of Present State Dry Directors.

Although Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews has not yet announced the names of the officials who will have charge of the enforcement under his new district arrangement there is every prospect of a big shake-up in New York and New Jersey when the announcement is made, says a Washington dispatch to the New York Herald of this morning.

Neither R. Q. Merrick, divisional chief, nor Palmer Canfield, prohibition director of New York state, will be named as administrator. They will be either transferred, given subordinate places or let out entirely.

In fact it is declared that, the country over, a large percentage of the present officials are sure to be dropped from the service either at the outset of the new regime or in the course of a few months.

In official quarters the report persists that Commissioner Haynes will be out of office in the near future. He may not resign, it is said, but with the reorganization of the dry forces that is going on under General Andrews, his office eventually will become a sinecure. In fact, the office is now regarded merely as an advisory one.

One of the principal preliminaries upon which General Andrews has been waiting before proceeding with the selection of the twenty-two new prohibition administrators who are to have full charge of liquor enforcement under the reorganization, was disposed of "Tuesday" Controller General McCarl rendered an opinion to Secretary Mellon on the amount of salary which the government may pay these administrators. It is not to exceed $7,500 a year.

The maximum fixed by Mr. McCarl probably will be paid to the New York administrator and possibly two or three others who will be given charge of the sections where the wetts are most strongly entrenched. The four damp spots, according to the prohibition strategists, maps, will be the districts which include New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Rotary Will Help To Save Baseball

The Rotary Club at its luncheon today appointed a committee to sell tickets for an extra special baseball game on July 17 in which the Colonists will meet some club strong enough to put up a good game. This special game is in the way of a benefit to give needed financial aid to baseball in Kingston and the Rotarians are expected to purchase tickets in liberal quantity. Harry P. Dodge, Arthur Carr and Emil Boessneck are the committeemen and have already sold a number of tickets. Other organizations are expected to take similar action and it is hoped that 2,500 tickets will be sold.

Throat Slashed, But May Survive

Marlborough Farm Hand in Newburgh Hospital With Jugular Vein Severed—Man Accused of Cutting in Ulster County Jail.

With his throat slashed, Max Miller, an employee of Miles Doyle, who owns a farm about one mile from Marlborough, is in St. Luke's Hospital, says the Newburgh News. Despite the fact the man's jugular vein was cut, Miller is believed to be recovering. Charles Pitscoat another employee of the Doyle farm, who is accused of attacking Miller with a large pocket knife last Friday night, is now in the Ulster county jail, serving a ten days' sentence for public intoxication, but he will probably be arraigned on a charge of assault.

According to reports, jealousy moved Pitscoat to the attack. Miller, a man of about 55 years old, usually acted as boss in the absence of Mr. Doyle, and this fact, Pitscoat, a man of about 45, is said to have resented in a drunken mood. As the story was told to Justice Hutchins, Pitscoat first attempted to assault Miller with an axe, but another employee of the farm where five or six farmhands work knocked the axe from his hand with a club.

Apparently, the story is, Pitscoat had been subdued, but in a fresh outburst, he came up behind Miller and it is reported, ripped a deep gash in the older man's throat.

Miller was taken to the office of Dr. Charles C. Zacharie in Marlborough and after first aid treatment had been given, was removed to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh. Dr. Charles E. Townsend is now in charge.

Pitscoat was arrested and sentenced to the county jail on the public intoxication charge pending the outcome of the injury to his victim.

Famous Mount

The Mount of Olives is a ridge with three summits, stretching north and south of Jerusalem, in height 1,300 feet above the city, 400 feet above the intervening valley of Kedron and 2,000 feet above sea level. It derives its name from the fact that it was at one time studded with olive trees.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 8.—The stock market, after recording material advances in early trading, encountered considerable profit taking today and many of the initial gains were lost. A few of the motor and specialties, however, were strong enough to retain their fractional gains.

The principal bullish factors were:

1. The decline in call money to 3 1/4 per cent, the lowest since the last week in June, when preparations were being made for the July dividend payments.

2. The increase in freight car loadings to 991,241 cars in the week of June 27—the second record traffic of the year to date.

3. Announcement by the Iron Trade Review, that indications are that the process of curtailment is nearly spent.

4. The increase in Cornish crude oil prices and a slight decline in Smackover Production.

United States Steel advanced to 117, being prominent as a leader in the forward price movement in industrial stocks. The independent steel stocks moved upward under the lead of Gulf States and Crucible.

There was a large amount of trading in General Motors, which was still under the influence of its action in arranging a merger with the Yellow Cab Company. General Motors sold at a new high of 87 1/2, up 3 points from yesterday's low. Mack Truck, Pierce Arrow and other motor shares showed the effect of profit taking in the late trading.

There was brisk activity in utility stocks, which of late have been rather quiet. Leaders of this branch were Montana Power and Electric Power and Light. Neither the oil nor rails responded to the bullish factors.

American Can, Baldwin and other high priced industrial stocks were unusually inactive and price changes were narrow. American Smelting led the forward movement in the coppers with an advance of 2 1/2 points to 107 1/2. Stocks of the tobacco companies regained some of their recent losses. Sugar and shipping stocks were also inactive.

Games This Week For Colonials

The battle with the Havana Cubans was prevented Tuesday night because of the heavy shower but the Colonials are planning to bring this fast team here at the earliest possible date, for in the Havana the locals have a team that will give them a hard battle.

Today will give the Colonials a chance to rest up and tomorrow they will go to Middletown for a contest with the Grays. This will make the second game of this series, the Colonials having won the first game last Sunday. Paul Kinney will probably be the pitcher drawn for this match for he has plenty of rest since the Saturday game.

Friday will bring a team here that has not played here before, the Ticonderoga club. This is a team that has in other seasons played mostly upstate but will come down this year for a crack at the locals and it is reported that they can give a good account of themselves.

Sunday afternoon the Schenectady Police will be the attraction, there being no game booked for Saturday. This will make their second appearance on the local grounds, they having been here earlier in the season when the locals trounced them. The police are an outfit that will put up a good battle, they having made a good showing on their first trip here.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Giants won from the Pirates in the opening of the big series 7 to 6, when Kelly singled in the eighth, sending in Young with the deciding run. The "winning run" was scored a half dozen times during the one-time. The victory carried the Giants to within one game of first place.

Donohue shut the Phils absolutely out, 4 to 0, in the first game, but Rixey and the Reds finished second in the finale, 4 to 3.

The poor old Yanks took two on the chin, 12 to 2 and 6 to 5, Combs' homer in the second game tying the score in the ninth, being wasted on the St. Louis air when Rice replied with another in the Browns' half.

The Cards got only fourteen hits off Barnes and Graham in two games and dropped both to the Braves 7 to 4 and 8 to 2, Neil's homer over the left field fence featuring the opener.

Maranville's debut as player-manager of the Cubs was tarnished by an error on his first chance and a 10 to 5 victory over the Dodgers. Osborn getting a shellacking in the sixth inning.

Lyons had a slight edge on Reuther in the box and it was enough to stake the White Sox to a 2 to 1 decision over the Senators.

World-Famous Chapel

The Sistine Chapel is a famous chapel in the palace of the Vatican at Rome, erected by Pope Sixtus in 1478, and designed for religious services during Holy week. The ceiling is covered with frescoes by Michelangelo and the great Florentine masters, representing scenes from the Old Testament; while the walls are adorned with paintings, depicting events in the lives of Moses and Christ. The wall above the altar bears Michelangelo's sublime fresco of the Last Judgment, filling a space sixty feet high and thirty feet broad. This work was designed by Michelangelo when in his sixtieth year, and required eight years for its completion. The colors, however, have been so much impaired by time that little of the original beauty remains.—Kansas City Star.

Get Even With Scots for Game of Golf

Scotland crammed golf down our throats. Now we're getting back at them, we're crowding our breakfast down theirs. We've made them take everything but pie for the matutinal repast. The change, which began working about ten years ago, is now complete. Ham and eggs is now the national breakfast of Scotland, replacing porridge (or parritch) and haggis. Then, American golf also gave the Scots baked beans for lunch on at the golf club.

HANEY IS PASSED TO GET "TY" COBB

Altrock's Act Gives Tiger Star Unique Distinction in Baseball.

Fred Haney claims one distinction that no other ball player in organized baseball, or anywhere else for that matter, can equal.

It isn't generally known, yet it is true, that Fred was purposely passed by a pitcher who showed a preference for pitching to Cobb. Haney doesn't go around boasting of the fact, still it is a matter of record, and "Nick" Altrock was the villain in the plot.

Several years ago promoters on the Pacific coast induced Altrock, for a sum of money, to cavort for the edification of faddists along the coast league circuit, and at about the same time Cobb appeared in a number of games in the sunset section of the country.

In time Altrock and Cobb met on opposing teams and the one the Peach performed for embraced Haney in its line-up. "Nugget" batted just ahead of the Georgian, an ideal situation for the Washington comedian to "pull his stunt."

Altrock didn't fear Haney, but he wanted to give Cobb the "needle," so he promptly proceeded to pass Haney and subsequently shouted his challenge to Cobb.

"Nick" only fulfilled half of his purpose, however. It was a simple matter to pass Haney, not so easy to subdue Cobb, who crashed the comedian's first good pitch through the box so vehemently that it almost took Altrock's glove with it.

Passing anybody to "get" Ty Cobb has its danger.

BASEBALL NOTES

Baseball peanuts at ten cents a throw is another case of shell shock.

With the lively ball in use third basing has become a matter of bravery.

Opening day has lots of bearing on the rest of the season in the paralytic league.

As an outfielder this season Mr. Ruth has proved a highly effective publicity agent.

Ferdinand Zegri, left fielder, has been elected captain of the Columbia baseball squad for next season.

Jonah Halstead of East Paterson, N. J., was elected captain of the Lafayette college 1926 baseball team.

Catcher Lew McCarthy of Baltimore continues his hard and timely hitting, since his return to active duty.

Tom Stanton, a big right-handed pitcher from St. Louis university, has been signed by the Boston Red Sox.

The Baltimore club of the International league secured a fast man in Archdeacon of the Chicago White Sox.

Latest reports are to the effect that there are 67 fewer pounds of Babe Ruth in the public eye than formerly.

Aubrey Speer, star shortstop of the Trinity university team of Texas, has joined the Chicago White Sox for a trial.

First the International sent up an Archdeacon, from Rochester, and then Jack Dunn followed with a Bishop to the A's.

Johnny Lenthall, third baseman of the De La Salle academy team of Chicago, has been taken on for a trial by the White Sox.

In 1907 Hans Wagner stole second, third and home in a game with New York. He repeated this stunt in a game with Chicago in 1908.

Elmer Duggan, scotchman hunter and proprietor of the New York Yankees, who was with Rochester until recently, has been turned over to Providence.

Spartanburg has turned Pichee Herman Bryson back to the Asheville Tourists. He failed to convince Manager Kelley that he could deliver the goods.

The Cincinnati Reds are reported to be interested in the work of Bunny Gaubette, a young outfielder with Jersey City, who has been one of the early hitting sensations in the International league.

Legend Concerning Corp
